$3,500 first month, then $1850 per month

The most intensive and quickest way to gain measurable results is through the process of Live Coaching. The first "call" (all calls are via telephone appointments) will last for up to two hours. The context and direction of your coaching will occur in the first "intake" call. This will be followed by an additional call of up to 60 minutes for the first month. The second month will settle into the lower fee of $1850 and will consist of two 45-minute calls per month with a weekly check in via email.

The purpose of the coaching intervention is three fold.

You will have a conversation with Coach Bob is just not available to you in any other setting. As a result of this intervention you will gain new insights and perspectives that you would not ordinarily have access to. The second purpose of coaching is to challenge you to expand what you think is possible. A third benefit is that you will be in an accountability system that influences your brain on a scientific basis ensuring that you see the opportunities to handle multiple priorities and competing obstacles and still maintain forward progress towards living a life you love!
